

Please Wait

If you are patient
And you wait long enough,
The hot red stone
In my belly will slowly cool
To a pale blue crystal.

But if you press me now,
I will spit the brimstone,
Which we both hate,
As it burns both me and you
And those wounds may never heal.

###