

An unhelping hand

Returning outside, I see the frog has not moved from where it dwelt last I was there adhering to the tarp lining the pond, more than halfway up unthinking, I reach a hand down but the frog leaps back into the water
The process has unraveled my efforts backfire
I sought to help you but you have fled from me

####